YOU CAN HELP ME—I'm a baby; that's obvious. What you can't tell just by looking at me is that I want a home and a mother and daddy—the right home and the right mother and daddy. So while I'm waiting around, over here in the Cypress Street nursery, for the Children's Home Society of North Carolina to find the proper home for me, I have to be clothed, fed and given medical care. Since I can't get out and find a job of any kind, the money has to come from somewhere. Yes, you guessed it! It's got to come from big hearted folks like you. Cause if it didn't, I just don't know where I or all of my homeless little friends would get it. It's like you say, "Money doesn't grow on trees." So don't give those Junior Women's Club members the old brush off when they ask for your donation to the Children's Home Society. They're only trying to help us so someday, we ourselves can help somebody. Better yet, don't wait till they ask you; just make your check payable to Children's Home Society of North Carolina, Inc., and send it in care of The Textorian. You do that, and you'll hear some mighty grateful cooing from all of us babies.

WHITE OAK IDEA—Herbert Barley, Weaving Department employee at White Oak Plant, recently suggested having a truck to carry cuts of cloth from the cross alleys to the conveyor chute. This enables the cloth carrier to handle more cuts at one time and makes the job less strenuous. Mr. Barley received a cash award from Cone Mills Corporation for his idea.

DEMONSTRATION—Boys Physical Department of Cone Memorial YMCA gave a gymnastic demonstration at the YMCA membership drive kick-off dinner at White Oak. They were directed by Fay Gilbert and Dave Cheadle.

Civic Clubs Sponsor Meeting For Chest

Over 300 Community Chest workers will attend a mass meeting sponsored by 12 local men's civic clubs at Greensboro College Wednesday, September 30, at 6:45 p.m. It was announced this week by Ben Cone, campaign chairman for the 1954 Greensboro Community Chest drive.

The men's clubs volunteered to sponsor the meeting as evidence of their support of the annual campaign and of their agreement with the Chest policy that no Chest funds be used for financing campaign meetings.

Although the Greensboro Chest has enforced this policy rigidly for the past 15 years, there is still misunderstanding in some quarters. The civic clubs believe it is essential for all contributors to know that no part of their contribution is used for any campaign meeting costs.

The dozen clubs which have already offered to sponsor the mass workers' meeting are: Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Exchange Club, Sertoma Club, Greater Greensboro Exchange Club, B'nai B'rith, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Elks Club, Shrine Club and Piedmont Sales Exchange Club.

Some 300 workers are expected to convene at the college to hear how "three out of four" benefit directly from the Chest through the 17 Red Feather agencies receiving Chest support. The mass meeting will take the place of a score of separate meetings of workers to acquaint them with the details of the '54 campaign and how they can best carry the "3 out of 4" message to the residents of Greensboro.

Unit account committeemen in the 19 unit account divisions will receive campaign supplies to be delivered to some 740 industrial firms and organizations employing (Continued on Page 4)

Proximity Y's Men To Sell Barbecue

Proximity Y's Men's Club will sponsor a big barbecue October 17, on Fourth Street, across from Sykes Drug Store.

The proceeds will be used for youth activities in Cone Mills and for community betterment. The barbecue will be prepared by E. Q. (Red) Seawell, retired police captain, who prepares the annual police barbecue. It will be sold from 11 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $1.00 each, available from any Y's Man.

YMCA Is Force For Better Living

Cone Memorial YMCA is now in the midst of an annual membership campaign for new members. Every citizen of Cone Mills and surrounding communities, it is hoped, will join the "Y" during this drive. This will encourage the work of the three local associations in order to make this community a better place in which to live.

The young people today are workers, parents, teachers and leaders of tomorrow. They need to be trained to meet these responsibilities. A boy or girl is urged by the "Y" to face life with a philosophy based on sound Christian principles to be used in business dealings and everyday living. Is there a better way in which to improve relationships among people?

Also, there are social and recreational facilities that offer an almost unlimited choice of wholesome fun with clubs and social groups to meet the varied interests of members. Reading rooms offer ample literature, while the buildings are provided with television facilities for their members.

You will find the coming year's affiliation with your "Y" a pleasure and a profitable one whether it is used by you, your children, or both.

Industrial Conf. To Be Nov. 5-6

Piedmont Industrial Relations Conference, sponsored by the Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce, will be held at Hotel Robert E. Lee in Winston-Salem, November 5-6. ## Legionnaires To Purchase Gifts

Cone Post 386, American Legion, made a success of its Brunswick stew sale last Saturday. Some of the proceeds will go to the purchase of Christmas gifts for the cerebral palsy patients.

Joe Odell, in charge of the project, states that although the stew was to have been on sale from noon "till" that by 4 o'clock more than 70 gallons had been sold. A special meeting of Cone Post will be held at 7:30 tonight.

Girls' championship went to the high school girls' team and the Sportsmanship Medal went to Joyce Rosemond.

The Eno Plant championship team was made up of Henry Wilson, Wallace King, Jimmy Hamet, Dickey Dixon, William Parker, Archie Brown, Jasper Medlin, Clifton Riddle, George Allison, Bobby Andrews, Bobby Knight and Dallas Emory, manager.

Englishman Hears From Buffalo Pastor

Philip Lee, of Canterbury, England, writes that he has heard from two readers of The Textorian, one of them a minister who lives on Church Street.

He stated that the minister, which is no doubt Rev. A. P. Dickson, pastor of Buffalo Presbyterian Church, planned to come to London and would try to get to Canterbury to see him.

Mr. Dickson is now on a trip abroad.

Mr. Lee wrote an article for The Textorian on Canterbury which was published several weeks ago. The eighteen-year-old antique dealer, whom the manager of The Textorian met while in England last Spring, is now awaiting three years' service in the Royal Army. He plans to come to America when he has completed his service.

Cone Legion Post Takes Part In Parade

The American Legion Post of Liberty was in charge of a parade there Saturday in honor of Sgt. James Boyd and Sgt. Boyd Allred of Liberty, who have recently returned to their home after being prisoners of war in Korea for more than 30 months.

Cone Post 386 was represented by a color guard led by Richard Wheeler and Legionnaires Troy Wall, Arthur Stanley, Vernon Jarvis and Norman Pinkelton. H. W. Shores represented the post as commander.

W. L. McMillan of Rocky Mount made the speech of welcome. Mr. McMillan is state commander of the American Legion.

CHAMPIONS—Eno Plant softball team, shown here, are proud three-time winners of the Hillsboro softball championship trophy in softball. Charlie Hartsook's bird, "Little Blackie," came in first in last week's race from Gastonia. It won by five hours over "Big Jim," owned by John Whitaker. Third place was taken by Wade Wall. Other birds failed to return because of rain and bad weather.

Teen Co-ed Club Plans Hayride

Proximity Teen Co-ed Club held its weekly meeting Thursday night, September 17, with 18 members present. Following the business session, games were played, led by Larry Ward, program chairman.

All 15 to 19 year olds who are interested in becoming members, should get in touch with Mrs. Frances Funderburk or Wayne Cates at Cone Memorial YMCA.

This is no joke, for any and all concerned. . . . A recent new recruit turned up in Fort Meade, Md., with the real but somewhat wonderful name of Pvt. Donald R. Duck.

Sidney M. Cone, Jr., vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, will speak and present the awards. Jack Hughes, Jr., campaign chairman, will preside.

A Noticeable Change

It is with extreme regret that we note the increasing bitterness being demonstrated by the former Secretary of Labor.

His last statements concerning the President himself vary to an appreciable degree from the statements he made at the time of his resignation and soon thereafter.

From the White House comes word that the President did not enter into an agreement with the Secretary of Labor relative to the much discussed Taft-Hartley amendments. If the President did not enter into such an agreement, then of course he could not have reneged on such an agreement.

It was noted that Mr. Durkin, after resigning, expressed a high regard for the President and left the intimation to many that it probably was not the President personally who failed to follow through. In fact, the general impression existed that Mr. Durkin was not too sure whether or not the President was fully posted on the 19 amendments. Now we would judge that the former Secretary of Labor is extremely bitter towards the President—at least publicly—and is saying things which demonstrate a complete contradiction of his former attitude towards him, even after he resigned.

This change did not just happen so. It may be that the former Secretary of Labor is being sucked into a deep-seated, political maneuver; it may be that he is being used as a tool by the top men in his parent organization.

Insofar as the 19 amendments are concerned, we do not recall that at any time during his campaign the President even intimated that he would advocate any such drastic changes in the Taft-Hartley Act as were included in some of the amendments that Mr. Durkin seems to value so highly. In fact, all through his campaign the President emphasized the importance of increasing the jurisdiction and power of the states. One of the most objectionable amendments in the group is one which would nullify certain powers and jurisdiction which legislators of thirteen states have passed.

It is difficult to reconcile the thinking of some of Mr. Durkin's associates with the facts which came out of the presidential election. We cannot see how certain leaders who so bitterly fought the President could expect him to permit them to write their ticket and attempt to get through legislation which is most objectionable to the people who supported the President.

We had hoped that the former Secretary of Labor would become a public servant of statesmanlike qualities when Mr. Eisenhower adopted a broad, non-partisan policy in appointing him to a cabinet post.

LISTEN AMERICANS!

... by George S. Benson

President of Harding College

Must the national debt limit be raised? Every man, woman and child in the nation has a very real stake in the answer to this question. The legal limit now is $275,000,000,000. It is expected to be reached early in 1954. Then the national debt will be imposing a $7,000 mortgage on the present and future incomes of every American family.

There is a way out of the financial mess our government is in without plunging ourselves further and further in debt. It can be stated simply: cut federal spending to equal federal income. That's the first step.

Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, one of the nation's acknowledged authorities on the federal budget, puts it this way: "It may be that the administration would be forced to operate on a very prudent and conservative budget in order to avoid and increase in the debt limit, but the President has the authority, if he chooses to use it, to place every agency of the government on expenditure rations and limit the expenditures in such manner as he deems best."

Governor Francis Cherry of Arkansas, when he took office last January, insisted that the legislature give him the power to cut state expenditures below the legislative appropriations if tax income should fall below the budget allotments. Sixty days later the income from taxes did fall below the rate necessary to support the appropriations.

The Governor had a choice to make. He had a substantial treasury balance. He could take the politically "easy road" and dip into this treasury balance to make up the difference between income and outgo. But that, he knew, wouldn't be sound governmental practice. It would be like borrowing money for spending. He chose, instead, to cut expenditures. His instruction to his Director of Finance and Administration wasn't the loose political generality—"cut to the bone." His instructions were specific: "Cut expenditures to within the tax revenue available."

What Governor Cherry is doing for state government in Arkansas can be done for federal government by the present administration. The new federal administration did some substantial budget cutting, and Congress went even a little farther. But they did not go far enough. They have not achieved a full step toward sound government until they bring government spending within its income. The American public must now renew its demand that this be done.

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

What makes a Pythian Knight? An obligation no more makes a man a Knight of Pythias than does subscribing to the creed of a particular church make a true follower of Christ. You may attend church every day, sing in the choir, and be familiar with every ceremony and be no Christian. In like manner, a man may be present whenever his lodge convenes, he may or he may not take part in the ritualistic work, and yet he may be a great lodge hall Pythian. Such men are not now Pythians and no amount of obligations or tests will ever make such men Pythians.

By their fruits ye shall know them. When you ask a man to come into the church today, he will say, "I am as good as they," or "You have too many hypocrites in the church." Mind you he did not say that he was as good as Christ or that Christ was a hypocrite. So it is with our Order. Such men are not Pythians and no amount of obligations will ever make them a Pythian Knight. Men whose hearts do not realize and whose minds cannot comprehend the real lessons of friendship, charity and benevolence and who cannot apply the teachings of our Order to their daily lives and who cannot feel their duty to their fellowmen are not Pythians. A true Pythian will have a tug of Love and Sympathy in his heart.

Sorry to report that Mrs. Nettie Fracheur, wife of Pythian Jim Fracheur, is a patient at the Cone Memorial Hospital. Here's trusting that your wife, Jim, will be out and among her many friends soon. Speaking of the sick, Pythian Jess Wheeler is doing so nicely at the Veterans' Hospital in Durham that it has been reported he will be home by the next setting of the Pythian Echoes.

Pythian T. G. Watkins was overwhelmed with joy when the fellows came to his rescue for funds for his Pythian Relief Work. The old song, "Pennies From Heaven," was changed momentarily for this Pythian to "Dollars Coming My Way." We will say this much for "T.G." — he certainly uses the money he receives for many good causes and is without doubt the best man so far the Lodge has had on this particular job.

The annual Pythian Bowl Game tickets are now on sale at $2.00. Anyone desiring tickets for this big game of the year, this year between Emory and Henry and Lehigh Rhyne, can purchase same from any Pythian. Pythian W. B. Burke is chairman of the ticket committee.

A letter was read at the last session from the children of the Pythian Home at Clayton reminding them of the special day, October 11, when they will be looking for a large crowd of Pythian Daddies over the state to visit with them. Pythians, pack a basket and take your family to see the children made so happy by your liberal support. You will be well pleased, I am sure, of the manner in which the home is being run and of the excellent condition of the children. Remember Sunday, October 11, is your date to visit the Pythian Home.

So. Textile Exposition To Draw Exhibitors

GREENVILLE, S. C.—The 18th biennial show of the textile machinery manufacturers and suppliers, the Southern Textile Exposition, will be held October 4-8, 1954, in Textile Hall. Herman Cone, Cone Mills Corporation president, is one of the directors of Textile Hall Corporation, which is sponsoring the exhibit.

At the same time it was made known that additional space will be provided for the 1954 exposition, permitting the inclusion of some exhibitors who could not be accommodated in the 1952 show, which even so was the largest in the more than 35 years that the exposition has been held.

Many Exhibitors

Last year 259 exhibitors shared a total exhibit area of nearly 50,000 square feet. The magnitude of the exposition, first held in 1915, has increased to the extent that planning is done more than a year in advance. The exposition last year drew around 40,000 people in the trade from all parts of the United States and some foreign countries.

Textile Hall, a massive structure in downtown Greenville, was built in 1917 especially for the exposition and the exhibiting of heavy machinery. It has been substantially enlarged since by annexes and for the 1952 show a permanent brick and steel annex was built and Textile Hall underwent a $100,000 face-lifting and renovation.

Even so, however, the number of exhibitors would have been greater if space had been available, officials reported. Held in the heart of the Southeast where the great bulk of the textile industry is concentrated, the huge exhibition has become an institution in the textile world, and is the largest of its kind to have been held continuously over so long a period.

Handling a crowd of some 40,000 visitors is no small task in itself, and a well-planned program has been worked for accommodating the personnel in attendance, both visitors and exhibitors. Since the 1952 show, several large and attractive motor courts have been built near Greenville which will supplement hotel accommodations in Greenville, Clemson and the area.

In past years the exposition has run five and a half days, opening on Monday morning and closing Saturday afternoon. However, in response to numerous requests for a five-day show and shorter hours, the 1954 exposition will open Monday morning and close Friday afternoon. The hours will be 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

The exposition is put on by Textile Hall Corporation. James H. Woodside of Greenville is president and treasurer of the corporation and Miss Bertha Green is secretary. Chairman of the board is W. G. Sirrine, who served as president from 1920 until a reorganization a few years ago.

The directors of Textile Hall Corporation in addition to Mr. Cone are John W. Arrington, Jr., Sydney Bruce, Edwin Howard, Ellison S. McKissick, W. W. Page, C. E. Hatch, Ernest Patton, W. G. Sirrine, F. W. Symmes, Harold R. Turner, James H. Woodside, all of Greenville; Thurmond Chatham, Elkin, N. C.; Donald Comer, Birmingham, Ala.; Robert I. Dalton, Charlotte, N. C.; L. O. Hammett, Honea Path, S. C.; W. S. Montgomery, Spartanburg, S. C., and George M. Wright, Abbeville, S. C.

A Matter of Habit

You can get the habit of being safe on any kind of job. The safe way can become something you do matter-of-factly—without stopping to think about it.

For example, if you get the safe lifting habit—of lifting with your leg muscles—the habit won't let you lift with your weak back muscles. Habit will remind you about that guard that ought to be in place.

Here are three simple steps in forming good safe habits.

1. First start the job right. You learn safe job habits.
2. Secondly, practice the right habits. Keep right on doing your job right, properly, safely, every time you do it.
3. Finally, never let the habit slip. Keep on doing what you're supposed to do in the right way, the safe way.

You're going to have habits, good or bad, whether you want them or not. That's the way human beings work. And since it's just as easy to learn the right way, the safe way, as it is to learn the wrong way, be smart and learn the right way.

Start doing things the right way, keep on doing them the right way. That is how good habits will make your job easier and safer.

To avoid accidents, it is our responsibility to discuss, thoroughly, all unsafe practices, and to have a thorough understanding of the work to be undertaken so that we know the safe method to be used.

It is our responsibility to call attention to inexperienced or careless associates, of unsafe practices or habits, showing them, by reason and forethought, that accidents can be prevented.

It is our responsibility to know that all tools, ladders, scaffolds, goggles and other safety equipment is in good safe condition when in use, reporting immediately to proper authority when such equipment should be repaired or replaced.

It is our responsibility to avoid unnecessary risks about moving cars or engines, and to know that a train may be expected on any track, at any time, in either direction—and when getting on or off, that there are no trains passing on adjoining tracks and conditions are safe to do so.

It is our company's responsibility to provide safe tools and equipment; and to encourage good housekeeping of all property as well as keeping the property in good repair.

It is both employee's and employer's responsibility to maintain an active cooperative interest in an over-all safety program so that no accident can be attributed to method or the property.

A good safety record in any industry is a good indication of cooperative effort in which management and employee have worked side by side to defeat a common enemy, ACCIDENTS. Their reward is the elimination of death, sorrow, suffering and financial loss to their fellow associates and their families.

So let no one say that we have not, or are not willing, to accept our safety responsibilities.

—Berl McLaughlin, Asst. Supt. of Safety and Welfare, Duluth, Missabi and Iron Range Railroad.

Safety Idea

While you read this, somebody probably will be getting killed in a traffic accident. The terrible slaughter on our streets and highways goes on day after day, although it gets most publicity on the holiday weekends. Traffic is taking American lives at the average rate of about 100 a day. Thousands of others suffer crippling injuries. Property damage from automobile accidents runs high in the millions. More of our people have been killed by automobiles than in all of our wars put together even though wars were being fought long before the automobile was invented.

Everybody deplores the traffic carnage. Safety experts do what they can to stop it. Laws help. Education helps. But success rests with the man at the wheel.

Somebody has suggested a revolutionary remedy—common courtesy. Why not give the other fellow a break? Fighting the traffic won't get you far ahead, and it's rough on the nerves. If the other driver wants to pass, help him. You'll probably see him again at the next stop light, anyway.

And courtesy, they say, is contagious.

Ceasar Cone School News

The pupils in Miss Heffner's room elected their class officers and helpers. The following officers were elected: President, Kelly Pinkerton; vice president, Stephen Perdue; secretary, Earlene Cochran. The following were appointed as helpers for the week: Michael Kinney, Burwell Cockman, Michael Welch, Bobby McCaskill, Iris Byrd, Charles Ruble, Joyce Woodell and Gerald Crum.

Burwell Cockman brought a snake for the science table. He is trying to identify it so the class can take better care of it.

Sidney Harris and Charles Ruble caught some fish from the pond for the aquarium. Burwell Cockman brought the water from the pond to get the aquarium set up. The class hopes it is balanced.

Miss Lindley's second grade has 31 boys and girls. We have all been at school every day for the first ten days of the year. At the end of the first month we hope we can tell you in the newspaper that we have all been here for 20 days.

We have a common garden spider in a terrarium in our school. Tommy Steed found it for us. Some people call it a writing spider because it spins a zig-zag trimming in its web. Our spider has spun a web with the zig-zag trimming. We have put some grasshoppers in with it. Two have been caught in the web and our spider has spun silk threads around them. We are watching for an egg sac.

The pupils of Miss Schiffman's fourth grade are studying birds. They have also organized an Audubon Junior Club, which will meet once every two weeks. The purpose of the club is to learn about nature and conservation. The officers are: president, David Barbour; vice president, Pamela Basinger; secretary, Judith Gauden, and treasurer, Christine Pursley.

Mrs. Gray's sixth grade class organized a club, namely "The Sixth Grade Good Citizenship Club." Officers are: President, Jerry Coffey; vice president, Nancy Martin; secretary, Pamela Jones, and treasurer, David Gwyn. The club will meet once each month. The members decided to pay five cents each week for dues. The class is glad to announce that four of Mrs. Gray's pupils have been selected to serve as patrol boys. They are Larry Lovett, Charles Yates, David Gwyn and Jimmy Whitt. The boys and girls in the class are very much interested in studying about the United Kingdom. A new member, Shirley Williams, entered school Monday. The class now has nine girls and nineteen boys in the room.

Edward Neugent, one of the boys in Mrs. Gray's sixth grade, is one of five scouts in Troop No. 77 in White Oak who passed requirements for higher rank. The school is proud of Edward.

more than 10 persons. Workers in the eight soliciting divisions will receive assignments of individual prospects they will contact. The mass workers' meeting is the first of its kind since the Greensboro Chest was organized 32 years ago. Mr. Cone expressed appreciation of the civic clubs' backing of the Chest's long-time policy that no contribution money be used for meals for workers.

"We consider it a tribute to the volunteers who are willing not only to give of their time for Chest campaign purposes, but also, in addition to personal contribution that they are willing to dip in their own pockets to pay the cost of the four report meetings planned during October," Mr. Cone added.

Kick-off date is October 7 for the forthcoming drive for $302,902.85. This marks an increase of $20,000 or seven per cent over the 1953 goal.
